

Six rooms for the work to live in.

Same artist. Same gallery. Six completely different doors to walk through.

Every concept is engineered around one rule: the site should feel like hospitality, not exhibition. None opens with shock imagery. None asks the visitor to explain herself at the door. Each solves "safe" a different way.

The brief: real, emotionally safe, creative and artistic. Someone survived something here. Not "look how tortured I was." Each concept ships with a printable PDF you can share with Priscilla.

hello, friend.

CONCEPT 01

Hearth

Come inside, the kettle's on.

Warm cream and soft peach. Rounded everything. Opens by saying hello like a friend's living room. Artist is the host, not the survivor on display. Soft promise strip: no pressure, soft entries, made with care.

CONCEPT 02

Garden

Healing grows here.

Sage, terracotta, dusty rose, oat. Botanical SVG accents. Gallery reframed as garden beds (slow bed, quiet bed, tender bed). Submit page is "plant a seed." Cottage garden at dusk.

A KEPT LIGHT

Come sit with me.

"You don't have to be over it to be here."

CONCEPT 03

Lantern

I'll sit with you in the dark.

Warm umber lit from within. Candle-glow amber. For visitors who find peppy bright sites invalidating mid-something-hard. Anti-toxic-positivity. Dignified low light, not gothic. The site refuses to flinch.

AN OPEN LETTER

FROM THE ARTIST

If you found this, read first.

I made this so you wouldn't have to explain yourself
at the door.

CONCEPT 04

Letter

I wrote this for you.

Paper white, large serif body, handwriting accents. The homepage IS a letter to the reader. Almost no UI chrome. Art appears mid-letter pinned like a postcard. The most intimate of the six.

CONCEPT 05

Atelier

Treated like the art it is.

Cream paper, ink black, oxidized brass. Fine-art monograph energy. Catalog raisonné.

Numbered plates (Plate I, Plate II). Drop-cap foreword, museum-label captions. Phaidon book gravitas.

CONCEPT 06

Threshold

A soft place at the edge.

Peach, lavender, dusty rose, gold. Dreamy sunset gradients. Pieces presented as glowing soft orbs. Surreal-sanctuary energy. Like a perfumery atelier but for grief. The most aesthetically unusual of the six.

How to choose, without overthinking it.

Open each one. Scroll the whole homepage. Don't read the placeholder copy too closely. Notice which room makes your shoulders drop.

Hearth if you want a friend's living room. Garden if healing should have its own pace. Lantern if you want the site to refuse peppy. Letter if you want it intimate and direct. Atelier if the work should be treated like the art it is. Threshold if you want it dreamlike and soft.

All six refuse the "look how tortured I was" energy. Each gets there a different way. Tell us which room feels like yours and we build it out fully.
